

Heading towards a Cure.

I have exciting news to share with you all. As you all know, I am what is called a T-10 paraplegic and I have been researching a medical procedure that is being done in Germany. I recently sent all my medical records to have the doctors there review and see if I would be a candidate to receive this treatment. I have been approved for a stem cell treatment at the XCell-Center at the Institute of Regenerative Medicine in the Eduardus Hospital in Cologne Germany where the therapeutically use of autologous adult stem cells treat patients with spinal cord injuries by way of lumbar puncture or by direct implantation of the stem cells in the damaged section of the spinal cord. The Stem Cells are from my own bone marrow which will cause no side effects or rejections. The success rate in patients that have been treated is around two out of three.

20 for 20 - Fund Raiser

My goal is to raise $16,000.00 to pay for the Stem cell medical procedure, hotel and food plus any taxes.

I am requesting your help and asking for a donation of just $20.00 and then if you can ask 20 other people to donate $20.00 each.

Everyone is invited to follow my progress of fund raising and treatment by visiting my website at <http://www.anthonychase.org>

Thank you for taking time to help me out with my dream to someday to walk or to improve the quality of my life.
